Does Your Nonprofit Need Help?

San Francisco’s ReServe program is ready to get you the help you need – efficiently and affordably. We help place talented, skilled, and experienced older adults and people with disabilities in part-time and project-based assignments at nonprofits like yours.

Why should you consider hiring a ReServist?

The ReServe talent pool is top-notch!
ReServists have a wide range of experience and training from all sectors, including business owners, finance and HR professionals, lawyers, teachers, event planners, graphic designers, and IT.

We match your organization’s specific needs to job seekers’ experience.
Need help with accounting? HR? Events? Marketing? Whatever your specific needs are, we will source the best candidate to meet those needs from our vetted talent pool.

ReServists are eager to give back and work hard.
ReServists want to put their experience to work in making an impact, whether it’s doing things similar to what they did in their careers – or trying new things.

We take care of all the paperwork.
You don’t have to worry about payroll, workers’ compensation, and other HR-related tasks. You simply approve the hours the ReServist works and we send you an invoice.

ReServists can support your goals of a more inclusive workplace.
The ReServe pool of older adults and people with disabilities is diverse in every way, including many multilingual jobseekers.

Rebecca, a retired graphic artist, was struggling to get by in San Francisco.

“But when I started looking for a job, I wondered who was going to hire an old lady?” says Rebecca.

Thanks to the ReServe program, Rebecca was hired as a marketing specialist at the Aquatic Park Senior Center. Her first assignment? A marketing strategy for the annual Pier to Pier Walk, including social media and press.

“Rebecca has been amazing,” says Sue Horst, director of the Center. “She's enormously skilled and fast - a perfect project person.”
